The Mary Pazdur Award for Excellence in Advanced Practice in Oncology

2024 OFFICIAL RULES

NO PURCHASE OR PAYMENT OF ANY KIND IS NECESSARY TO ENTER OR WIN. A PURCHASE WILL NOT INCREASE THE CHANCE OF WINNING. VOID WHERE PROHIBITED BY LAW.

1. Eligibility: Contest is open only to current advanced practitioner APSHO members whose membership status is in good standing and who are 21 years old as of the date of entry. An advanced practitioner (AP) is defined as nurse practitioner (NP), physician assistant (PA), clinical nurse specialist, (CNS) or pharmacist. The contest is open only to legal residents of the United States and is void where prohibited by law. Employees of APSHO (the “Sponsor”), their respective affiliates, subsidiaries, advertising and promotion agencies, suppliers, and their immediate family members and/or those living in the same household of each are not eligible to participate. Additionally, the following individuals are NOT eligible for the award at this time:

- APSHO Board of Directors (BOD) – current term or while under consideration for a BOD seat*
- APSHO Awards and Recognition Committee – current member or chair term
- JADPRO Live Planning Committee and/or conference chair – current term
- Advanced practitioners not currently working in oncology/hematology (such as working in a different specialty or in retirement)
- Advanced practitioners who are not members of APSHO

*Committee review of nominations and recipient selection for this award typically occurs prior to the annual APSHO BOD ballot creation and voting. Nominees and named award recipients are not precluded from participating in future elections to the APSHO BOD.

Current practice or role of the nominee:

The nominee must have a minimum of five years of experience in oncology/hematology and be currently practicing in one or more of the following roles:

- Clinical practice
 - Direct patient care as provider and/or prescriber; collaborative care with physicians or within a multidisciplinary team; provision of care during clinical trials, procedures, symptom management, and treatment or level-of-care decisions
 - Settings may include an academic medical center, comprehensive cancer center, community cancer center, hospital inpatient, outpatient hospital-based cancer center, private practice, palliative care or hospice

- Quantitative or qualitative research
 - Principal investigator or sub-investigator experience, protocol development, review board correspondence, patient recruitment and consent, direct patient care, grading and management of adverse events, data collection, data analysis, reporting or presentation, and/or publication
- Committee or other collaborative work
 - Involvement or leadership in tumor boards, guideline development, policy development, education, professional society work/contributions, publication, health care policy work
- Leadership
 - Clinic supervision, administration, team education, development of pilot projects, advanced practice specialty clinics, private practice, mentoring, program development
- Education
 - Faculty, curriculum development, advisor, speaker/presenter, team education, mentoring, professional development
- Advocacy
 - Patient/caregiver advocacy work, mentoring programs, health care policy work, community education, event organization, program development

Nominee characteristics:

A nominee should possess and demonstrate excellence, skill, passion, empathy, leadership, ethics, positive influence, vision, collaboration, and continuous learning.

Nominee work and contributions:

Nominees must exhibit evidence of contributions to oncology/hematology in areas such as clinical practice, research, quality improvement, guideline development, collaborative practice/projects, AP-led projects, mentorship, or oncology/hematology literature. Nominators are encouraged to provide as much information as possible regarding the contributions of the nominee.

Nominations may be submitted by current or former colleagues of the nominee. The nominator is not required to practice at the same institution or location as the nominee, but he or she should be able to provide a clear description of the qualifications and experience of the nominee through a shared professional oncology/hematology experience, with current relevance and letters of support. The nominator may be an advanced practitioner, physician or a colleague of a different discipline. The nominator does not have to be a member of APSHO. Self-nominations will not be considered for this award.

The Contest is subject to all applicable federal, state and local laws and regulations. Void where prohibited.

2. How to Enter: The nominator should submit information online regarding the nominee with supporting documentation. A nomination will not be considered fully submitted and ready to enter the review process without the following information:

- Full name, credentials, title/position, institution, email and phone number of the nominator

- Full name, credentials, title/position, institution, email and phone number of the nominee
- Cover Letter for the nomination, to include:
 - An introduction of themselves and a description of their professional relationship to nominee
- Separate essay on why this person is being nominated, to include:
 - Description of nominee attributes
 - Nominee's key contributions to oncology/hematology using descriptive examples
 - Highlights of the nominee's APSHO involvement and contributions
 - Statement as to why this person should receive the award
- Letters of recommendation* from two additional sources that include:
 - Full name, credentials, title/position, institution, email and phone number
- Curriculum vitae (CV) of nominee is required (a current CV is preferred, but may be from within the last 6-12 months). The nominee's CV should include their membership with APSHO and APSHO areas of involvement as indicated.
- Additional supporting documentation or statements the nominator would like to provide

Letters of recommendation must come from current or recent colleagues (within two years) who can add to or support the narrative of the nominator regarding the qualifications and experience of the nominee. For this purpose, a colleague may or may not be an advanced practitioner but should also be able to express support through a shared professional oncology/hematology experience.*

Submission requirements must be met and approved for a nomination to move into the review process. If there are questions regarding the submission information for a nomination, the nominator will be notified by the nomination coordinator for the Awards and Recognition Committee.
